THE ACTION OF ALCOHOL.

A contribution to the great discussion of this subject has recently been made by Dr. A. R. Cushny, F.R.S., at the last meeting of the British Association, and published in "Natural Science."

The question to be settled is a twofold

one, namely, what is its action in thera peutics and also as a food, and so much feeling has been roused by intemperate advocates and denouncers, that all state ments one way or the other must be weighed with the utmost caution, for preudice is rampant.

There can be no doubt that alcohol has a value as a drug, and what this value is Dr Cushny sets himself to discuss. That alcohol has a value has been stoutly denied by many, and this absolute donial has reacted in its favour among many doctors. before going further we must decide exactly what is meant by this term. It is says the author, anything that increases the activity of any definite organ. The organs affected may be referred to as those of 1743 nutrition, the brain, and those of the circu-

Its effects on nutrition are referred partly. to its influence on digustion and absorption, and partly to its action on the food itself. The general belief, for which there is apostolic authority, is that alcohol improves digestion. This has been tested by a long series of observations and found to be incorrect. The production of digestive ferments is increased by a small quantity of pure alcohol, but this is not the case with alcohol in the usual beverages, and the amount in a couple of glasses of whisky | SOLE AGENTS for Miyao and Rishidake 1744 is a decide! overdose. Alcohol may pro. Coals. duce a slightly increased absorption by the intestine, but not more than-does any other irritant. The difference in effect between a small dose and oven a light over-I dose is marked.

Anything that increases our appreciation of food is of value, for this improves the digestion, and bero individual poculiarity comes in. A couple of glasses of wine will have a good effect on one subject and an 2123 ill one on another. The jaded appetite demands exceptional measures. One ma takes mustard, and is judged of upright dife and conversation, while he who takes wine is condemmed. The danger, and a real one, is that of the cultivation of a habit.

Alcohol is a food; of this there can be no doubt, for careful experiments many times repeated have shown it to be so." Over 95 per cont. of the alcohol ingested is hurnt up in the body, and is thus a source of energy. It is comparable to sugar, and to deny its value as a food is to shut one's eyes by the facts. But under certain conditions so are vinegar or even morphine. A food may be an injurious food, and its value, as compared with other foods, must be inquired into-

If a person' unaccustomed to alcohol be supplied with it regularly as a food there is usually some derangement of the digestivo functions. But this may not mean much, and cannot on that account be as cribed to the poisonous effects of alcohol: Many unaccustomed foods will act on a subject in the same way.

However, it has been found that alcohol lessens the nower of the tissues to resist the action of disease-producing organisms and of poisons. No experiments were needed to show that the first condition is true. The statistics of cholera in India, and of pneumonia in England, prove it beyond all rossible doubt. The power of resistance to discuse is lessened by the habitual-use of alcohol. Still it is not known what amounts are required to bring about the effect. All the experiments made on animals seem to have erred on the side of overdoses of the drug. What has been shown is that amounts equal to a glass of whisky, or two glasses of port a day, exercise a distinctly deleterious effect. What the lowest limit is we do not yet know, but it is, obviously, a very small-first effect, in most cases, is to produce live liness, and an increased confidence in the mental and physical powers. In the lower animals there appears to be no sign of this excitement. But is alcohol a stimulant or a depressant of the nervous system in man? Most people, doctor included, regard it as a stimulant, while most experimenters are opinion that it depresses. The experimenters appear to compare the effects, says Dr Cushny, to the removal of the brakes from a licavily-braked train. There is no lincrease in steam-power, no stimulation, but a loss of those associations which retard mental activity. Under the excitement of alcohol the person is more witty and generous, and so on, but he is not so guarded in his statements, or so careful of his own position or that of others. Where a normal person would maintain his self-control, the person roused by alcohol loses it, more or less. That is, the inhibiting power is weakened; the self-control of adult age is forgotten, and the person acts with the impulses of a child. The faculties last to be attained are the first to go. A very small dose impairs the power of exact mental work, and the laboratory experiments show that the effect does not were off for from 12 to 24 hours. So, says the author, even moderate drinkers are

But even if alcohol does act as a narcotic, this does not preclude its use in medicine. The worry of a patient may be soothed, and thus the disease loses its strongest ally. It is less harmful than many narcotics, for it disturbs the digestive tract less. The effect on the circulation is uncertain; perhaps it may help a failing heart.

. The danger of the habit must condemn its use. Those who reject cocaine and similar drugs must reject alcohol; but in some cases the risk must be taken, as in old age and general debility. Alcohol, concludes the author, is a drug, and must be considered as such, and not as a food.

PLAGUE AT SAIGON

Health Department 1t Fauit.

According to Saigon papers, plague, which had numerous victims in the city last year, has re-appeared. The Claytor apparatus is being used to disinfect the city. In one paper there is a comment to the following effect:---

Saigon is the one and only por remaining open to Hongkong, which is declared infected by plague by all the ports of the Far East. It is necessary to believe that we have nothing to fear from Hongkong, the plague "being already installed comfortably enough in our own

In Indo-China great importance is attached to inoculation as a prophylactic, but M. Bonhoure, the Acting Governor of Indo-China, intimates that, following on the considerable use of anti-plague serun during the last two years, the Pasteur Institute of Paris has exhausted the reserve which it possessed, and it is no possible to count on a new supplysion year. In these circumstances the quantity which exists in Indo-China will be strictly reserved for the treatment of confirmed cases, but preventive vaccinations will be effected with Haffkine vaccine which the Institute at Nha-trang is able to produce. The news of this deticiency ha provoked vehement criticism of Health Department.

Hon. Commander Taylor-It would be quite useless for that. The Hon. Colonial Secretary-I would like to take this opportunity of correcting some most extraordinary misappehensions which exist in the public mind regarding Causeway Bay. It seems to be considered that because the southern portion of the bay is bare at low tide, therefore Causeway Bay has silted up. That is not so. That is foreshore, as can be seen on the latest charts in the Colony. If you want to remove that you have got to take it away. The other part of Causeway Bay is quite deep enough. Hon. Dr Ho Kai-What is the area Causeway Bay?

The Hon, Colonial Secretary-It is acres. There is another misapprehension I should like to correct. When a typhoon is blowing outside, the tides are held up in this barbour. The effect of that is that when a typhoon is on the foreshore Causeway Bay does not become exposed. There is water there for the shallowest purpose inside. However, and it is being deep ned, but personally. and I have lived in the Colony for twentyfive years. I believe a great misapprehension exists as to the condition of the Causeway Bay Shelter, and I venture to think my hon friend, the Harbour Master, will agree

Hon. Mr Pollock-I quite follow with regard to what you say about the report having been passed in this Council, but since then, Sir, a good deal has happened. WATKINS As reg rds the matter of finance, there has been very lengthy correspondence between the Government and the Chamber of Commerce, and the matter does not stand at all as it did when that financial minute was passed. It is quite obvious that the scheme cannot be carried out if we have difficulty in financing, and Sir, I would like to point out that quite recently a scheme appeared in the local press in which Messrs Denison, Ram and Gibb pointed out that the present typhoon refuge at Causeway Bay could be prepared at a comparatively small cost.

The Hon. Colonial Secretary-But it is making a new refuge is that it should be elsewhere. Now, gentlemen, I would remind you that the several schemes for various boat shelters in the harbour were referred to the Public Works Committee. who selected Mongkoktsui. Then the recommendation was referred to the Typhoon Relief Committee. That was one of the biggest committees ever formed in Colony, and every possible man was on it. members of the Chamber of Commerce. heads of firms and everybody. That committee approved of it. Then it was referred again to the Public Works Committee on which the representative of the Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Hewett, had a seat. They discussed the matter very fully. You will find it in the Public Works Committee report (No. 8) of 1907. There was then some difference of opinion, some of the members mainting to go further affeld than Mongkokteui. They wanted to go to Choungshawan, which is a long way beyond Stonecutters. Then it was finally settled in the first report of the Public Works Committee for the current year, and it seems to me that the thing was threshed What Woman Wills, by Luces Cleeve. ANDAMAN ISLANDERS.

Being Killed By Civilization.

Although the Andaman islands lie at the very door of countries which have been highly civilised for thousands of years, the people who inhabit them have remained in the lowest grade of the savinge races of the world. The British first went to the Andamans in 1788, when the Government of Bengal established a penal settlement on Chatham Island, but the experiment was abandoned in 1796 in consequence of the terrible unhealthiness of the place. permanent occupation of the islands was eventually forced on the Indian Government by the outrages committed by the inhabitants on shipwrecked mariners. Few who were cast ashere on the Andamans returned to tell the tale : the yast majority were killed to satisfy the marked partiality of the islanders for human flesh British rule was finally established in 1858, and though for years the natives remained Damaged Puckages must be left in the savagely hostile, and regularly killed and ate all stragglers from the European settlement, they are now yielding to the influence presented within ten days of the steamer's of good treatment and civilisation. Agriculture, of which the aborigines knew nothing, now thrives, and human flesh has, it is believed, entirely disappeared from the native menu. In their primitive state

"MY WIFE'S WONDERFUL

CURE. THE RESTORATION OF MRS SILVA OF BANGKOK, SIAM,—THOUGHT TO BE DYING OF "DECLINE"-BY DR WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS.

ENTHUSIASTICALLY DESCRIBED BY HER GRATEFUL HUSBAND, DECLINE", or incipient Consumption, frequently arises from negleo'

Anaemia; especially in a hot climate. It is due to deficiency of blood; its symptoms are, a gradual decay of strength; loss of appetite; inability to derive benefit from food caten; muscular weakness; a condition of not being well, without any specific pain; gradual fading away, until death overtakes the patient. Dr Williams' Pink Pills have frequently restricted sufferers from "De- Kwong-chow-wan and Macao July 28, cline" to health, as in the case of Mrs General.-JEBSEN & Co. Silva described below, because they give with every dose. Mr S. D. Austin Silva lives at Windmill Road, Bangkok, Siam, and is engaged in the profession of mining. "Some two years ago my wife fell into a "decline," said Mr Silva. "She became exceedingly thin and pale, her eyes were sunken and had a yellowish hue, she could sleep but "One day just over a year ago a small pamphlet came into my hands telling of some noteworthy cures by Dr Williams' Pink Pills, and this led me to buy some of those Pills in the hope that they would benefit my poor wife. Before she had was a decided change for the better in her condition. Eight bottles of the Pills completely cured her. They restored her appetite, gave her back her strength, enabled her to sleep well, made her eyes bright and clear, and brought the glow and fullness of health back to her pallid sunken cheeks. It is now a year since my wife's wonderful cure by Dr Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, and since then she has Wosang, for Swatew. had no return of sickness.
